

NASA International Medical Evacuation Information

There are two international medical evacuation contracts maintained by NASA for civil service personnel located and/or traveling abroad who require emergency assistance.

NASA Contractor personnel located and/or traveling abroad should coordinate with their companies for guidance during Agency shut-downs/furloughs to identify support available in an emergency.

Global Rescue

NASA civil service personnel associated with work related to International Space Station Program/JSC should contact Global Rescue for emergency medical services: 617-459-4200 (collect calls accepted) or operations@globalrescue.com. Dr. Terry Taddeo, JSC Chief Medical Officer oversees the implementation of the evacuation process and contract for the program. Dr. Taddeo can be reached at 281-483-7041.

TMH Medical Services

All other NASA civil service personnel may contact TMH Medical Services: 844-506-4537 or medevac@tmhdopa.com. The toll-free number does work in foreign countries. The Office of the Chief Health and Medical Officer manages the contract for TMH's services. For questions, call 202-358-1794 or 202-358-2390.
